Breathtaking old cork factory turned into several lofts!

Grand and generous volumes renovated with authentic and carefully selected materials.

The owner, an architect by profession and passion, embodies the new culture of the modern developer who ensures that future occupants simply feel good within a space.

Lofts are equipped with modern facilities including: individual gas condensing heating, heated floors (ideal for a high ceiling space), double glazed aluminum window frames and a fitted kitchen.

The architect inhabited the space during the transformation phase and even sought the insight from a geophysicist.

Unicorn made the trip down to San Feliu de Guixols in Spain, to check product quality. We were left amazed. This charming fishing town where once upon a time the cork industry was in full swing, offers an ideal living environment for a well-deserved retirement, a second and/or holiday home. Suitable for: individual, couple and family trips.

More authentic than other resorts on the Costa Brava, and especially less overrun with tourists, nothing is left to be desired here: beautiful fine sand beaches, a bustling city center with small shops and restaurants, daily
